

Life is not monochromatic neither dichromatic. It is many hued. School is likewise for herein we learn life and how to live life best. Everyday is a colourful day, made vibrant by all the colours that are present all around and by the smiles and laughter of the little children. As each day life is revealed to them in various colours and forms they take in life and make it their own.